Ford Scholars and Alumni Network During Eagle Crest Meet and Greet Event

By Holly Scholz
Editor

The sunny Central Oregon summer created a perfect backdrop for a round of golf, happy hour and a meet-and-greet event at Eagle Crest. The second annual alumni summer gathering coincided with the Classes of 2012-2014 Ford Scholars Leadership Conference.

Twenty Ford Scholar Alumni and a few of their family members met up at the Eagle Crest Putting Course in Redmond, Ore., on Saturday, July 18, to try their swing at golf. They paired off into small groups and hit the course, reconnecting as they played the 18 holes.

Class of 2008 alumnus Thomas Kyle-Milward tries his hand at golf while Temesghen Habte, also from the Class of 2008, awaits his turn during the FSAA get-together at Eagle Crest on July 18.

"I've lived out of the country most of my adult life," said Class of 1995 alumna Lori Balbi. "I'm excited to join the FSAA." Balbi now lives in Vancouver, Wash., and admitted she was disappointed that there were not more alumni at the event.

Marco Olivera from the Class of 2009 came from nearby Madras, Ore., to the get-together. Olivera's two younger sisters are also Ford Scholars, and he attended the event because he wanted to know more about the FSAA. He supports the community service aspect of the organization.

After a sunny round on the putting course, alumni and their families visited over refreshments at the Silverleaf Café.

Class of 2008 alumnus Thomas Kyle-Milward carpooled with a couple of other alumni from the Portland area to attend his first FSAA event. He recalled how invigorated he always felt after the summer conferences as a Ford Scholar. "I left feeling recharged and ready for another term," he said.

That evening, alumni hosted a meet and greet with current Ford Scholars in the Golden Eagle Ballroom at Eagle Crest Resort Conference Center. Alumni introduced themselves and shared their school and career history before fanning out and connecting with Scholars.

FSAA President Mary Chuinard was pleased with the turnout, noting that attendance was double that of the first gathering last summer in Sunriver.

Plan to attend the third annual summer alumni gathering at Salishan Resort, near Lincoln City on July 16, 2016.

Scholarship Office Hires Manager of Scholar and Alumni Engagement

Bonnie Williams will join The Ford Family Foundation Scholarship Office in Eugene as the manager of scholar and alumni engagement at the end of October.

Williams has worked at the University of Oregon School of Law as the associate director of the Center for Career Planning and Professional Development, where she counseled law students and graduates on career goals and transitions. She also has experience working with alumni.

Williams earned a Bachelor of Arts in journalism and communication from the University of Alaska in 1998 and a law degree from the University of Oregon in 2004.

Director of Postsecondary Success Denise Callahan said the Scholarship Office had an extensive search to fill this new position.

"We are thrilled to have found her and really look forward to bringing her experience and expertise, particularly in student and alumni career support and program development, to this new work," Callahan said. "And on top of all of that, she is a fantastic person."

A Note from the President

By Mary A. L. Chuinard
FSAA President

Mary Chuinard

lots of Ford Scholar goodness.

Hard to believe it is fall already!
I don't know about you, but for me it feels like I blinked and summer was here and gone.
A couple noteworthy things occurred in that blink, including alumni, and get to chip around some golf balls before grabbing some grub with fellow alumni.

I want to extend a huge thank you to the alumni who attended the alumni meet and greet at Eagle Crest with the current Scholars and the alumni meetup social activities. For the second year of the event, it was pretty phenomenal to see the number in attendance double. The feedback from the current Scholars was all very positive, and they're excited to do it again next year.
Their one request is to meet and network with EVEN more alumni. I think that is a good place to be.

I was honored to welcome the Class of 2011 to the Ford Scholar
Alumni Association at their concluding leadership conference in June.

Not long after in July, it was amazing to see the current Scholars at their leadership conference, run karaoke for them, engage in some good networking of Scholars and Mark your calendars now, alumni, to make the Scholars' dreams of Ford Scholar Alumni gathered at Eagle Crest for the second annual alumni get-together on July 18. Many in attendance gave financial donations and received the new FSAA purple T-shirt. The popular shirts will be available for a suggested $25 donation at future FSAA events.

New Book Details the Life and Prosperity of Kenneth Ford

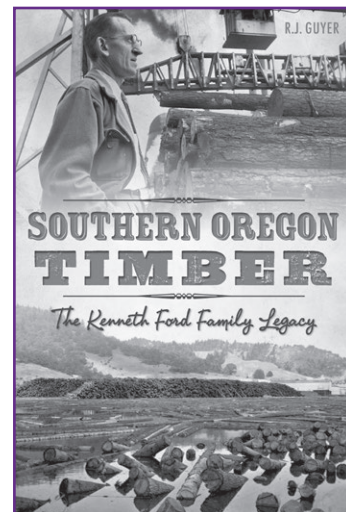

Author R.J. Guyer released a new book chronicling the life and entrepreneurship of Kenneth Ford. Arcadia Publishing released "Southern Oregon Timber: The Kenneth Ford Family Legacy" in August.

The story relates how forestry defined the culture of southern Oregon. Kenneth and Hallie Ford rose from humble beginnings with a single sawmill during the Great Depression and helped transform the state's timber industry. They founded one of the largest privately owned wood-products companies in the country, bringing the title "Timber Capital of the Nation" to Roseburg, Ore.

Their legacy remains today through The Ford Family Foundation, dedicated to creating and supporting successful citizens and vital rural communities. Guyer explores the evolution of logging and the challenges faced by the hearty men and women who plied this trade.

Guyer is the author of "Douglas County Chronicles" and a columnist for the News-Review newspaper in Roseburg. He is passionate about history and is a member of the Douglas County Museum. He holds a bachelor's degree from Emporia State University in Kansas.

The 160-page softcover book features numerous photos from the family scrapbook and quotes from those who have benefited from the Ford's vision and generosity. "Southern Oregon Timber: The Kenneth Ford Family Legacy" is sold at Barnes & Noble and Amazon and is also available for iBooks and Kindle.

Alumni Welcome Autumn During Fifth Annual Pumpkin Spectacular

By Holly Scholz
Editor

Sporting their festive purple T-shirts, Ford Scholar Alumni appropriately met in front of a giant purple Minion made of hay during the fifth annual alumni fall get-together and pumpkin spectacular at Bauman's Farm and Garden in Gervais, Ore., on Saturday, Sept. 26.

"It was such a beautiful day! The weather was about 80 degrees and sunny," exclaimed FSAA Board Member Emilie Jensen. "We ate doughnuts and had fun picking out pumpkins from the patch. A few of us also checked out the hay maze."

Jensen's younger brothers and sisters came to the Bauman's Farm and Garden Fall Harvest Festival, and fellow board member Danielle Currey brought her family as well.

"My children ran around with their wrist bracelets and fed goats, got lost in the dark maze several times, and enjoyed the music in the food court while eating their lunch," said Currey, who planned the FSAA get-together. "My husband and I enjoyed the farm store and sampled several different varieties of apples and pears."

Board members offered the new FSAA purple T-shirts for a $25 donation and Ford Scholar planners for a $15 donation. Proceeds benefit the FSAA.

Currey helped staff the FSAA

table in the Food Court and said conversations at the table included networking opportunities between alumni as well as encouraging alumni to get involved, join the board and attend the summer get-together at the coast next year. "We also spoke with a group of students regarding the scholarship who are potential future scholars," she said.

The annual autumn alumni social gathering is a fun event for Ford Scholar Alumni and their families to get together and enjoy the festivities of fall, said FSAA Vice President Kirsten Yamada. While hunting for pumpkins and eating apple cider donuts, it is also an opportunity for alumni to network with each other and share connections and resources.

"I enjoy listening to all the amazing things Ford Alumni are doing and accomplishing in their communities," Yamada said. "I always walk away with a new connection or organization to look into and that's what bringing Ford Alumni together is all about!"

Alumni Serve Their Communities During Earth Day Events

By Holly Scholz
Editor

Many ambitious alumni put the Ford Scholar Alumni Association Vision Statement, "Connect where you are; lead where you live," into action during various Earth Day community service events throughout the state in April.

FSAA Board Member Marshall Curry spearheaded a second state-wide FSAA volunteer effort. After finding success in arranging for alumni to coordinate volunteer opportunities in their communities during the Martin Luther King, Jr. Day of Service in mid-January, Curry copied the model for Earth Day.

Several alumni volunteered to engage other alumni and Ford Scholars in their communities and find an event that needed Earth Day volunteers.

Curry's MLK Day of Service and Earth Day volunteer efforts seem to have made some alumni fulfill the FSAA Mission Statement: "To provide opportunities for alumni to connect and further their leadership and service in their communities."

Curry said that Ford Scholarship Alumni are doing amazing service projects all the time, whether as service to their communities or for their companies. He encourages alumni to let the FSAA know about events so they can help recruit Ford Alumni to assist.

Curry already has plans for next year's MLK and Earth Day service projects. "We are hoping to make it easier for alumni to be coordinators of events, increase our outreach to build connections to alumni and Scholars, and continue improving our impact numbers in our communities," he said. "The more the merrier!"

Salem Event

Not only did Curry coordinate the entire FSAA involvement in Earth Day events, he lined up some Ford volunteers to help out at the Marion-Polk Food Share on Friday, April 17 in Salem.

"We set up tables, made gift baskets, put together floral arrangements, even helped bake cookies!" Curry said. He and five Ford volunteers also helped the garden program staff prepare for a youth educator workshop in the warehouse of the Food Share's distribution center.

"I can't thank the Scholars, alumni and community members that accepted my invite enough," Curry said.

Ford Scholar Alumni Marshall Curry, John Cheney and Nelya Drofyak helped set up a Youth Garden Educator Workshop at Marion-Polk Food Share in Salem as part of Earth Day festivities on April 17.

Eugene Event

Holly Scholz from the Class of 1998 invited local alumni and Ford Scholars to join her at the OSU Extension Master Gardeners Plant Sale in Eugene on Saturday, April 18. Class of 1997 alumna Diana Barkelew readily agreed to help out, saying she loved gardening. Alumna and Ford Scholarship Office Administrative Associate Shauna Harper from the Class of 2007 joined them on a beautiful sunny morning.

Current University of Oregon Ford Scholars Robin Hill and Kady Nguyen also volunteered. Hill, an art major, happily painted kids' faces in the Kids' Zone while Nguyen and the others worked tallying sales and running the holding area during the busiest time of the plant sale.

When the sale slowed down in the early afternoon, the volunteers took their turn browsing the array of healthy starter plants for their own gardens.

Class of 1997 alumna Diana Barkelew and University of Oregon Ford Scholar Kady Nguyen from the Class of 2012 worked in the plant holding area during a plant sale in Eugene on April 18.

Clackamas Event

FSAA Board Member at Large Danielle Currey from the Class of 1999 gathered four Ford volunteers to help clean up Cascade Heights Public Charter School in Clackamas, Ore., on Saturday, April 18. The school does not have a budget for regular janitorial services.

Sporting her new purple FSAA T-shirt, Currey joined others on a beautiful spring Saturday to beautify the school inside and out.

"We had a very busy and successful Earth Day school cleaning," Currey said. "Thank you again to all who were there!" She added that it was fun to catch up with fellow alumni Kirsten Yamada, Emilie Jensen and Van Duong while they cleaned.

Class of 2009 alumna Van Duong helped weed the flower beds at a Clackamas school in honor of Earth Day on April 18.

Emilie Jensen's friend Adam, FSAA Vice President Kirsten Yamada, FSAA Board Member Danielle Currey, newly elected FSAA Board Member Emilie Jensen and Van Duong (2006) helped clean Cascade Heights Public Charter School in Clackamas on April 18.

Corvallis Event

Newly elected FSAA Board Member Rebecca Fallihee from the Class of 2005 invited local Ford volunteers to join her in assisting with the Sunset Trail Run as part of the Beyond Earth Day celebration in Corvallis on Monday, April 20.

Fallihee, her husband, William; and Class of 2007 Ford Opportunity Scholar Danielle Davis volunteered in the name of the FSAA, marking the 5K race course, directing runners and taking down the course. The Oregon State University Student Sustainability Initiative organized the event.

William Fallihee, FSAA Board Member Rebecca Fallihee and Class of 2007 Ford Opportunity Scholar Danielle Davis helped set up a fun run for the Beyond Earth Day event in Corvallis on April 20.

The event coincides with the summer Ford Scholars Leadership Conference and brings together alumni and current Ford Scholars during a meet and greet gathering. Look for more details in the spring.

Milestones

Class of 1994

Marija (Kovacevic) Hobbs

In August, Marija started full-time employment as a financial aid coordinator at her alma mater, the University of Portland. She helps students and their families finance a high-quality education by providing access to information and resources. Marija is thrilled that her Ford Family Foundation experience now includes meeting new classes of Ford Scholars on campus.

Class of 1995

Joel Thompson

Joel recently celebrated his 15th anniversary as a prosecuting attorney. Jon Krakauer recently wrote about a particularly high-profile rape case in his latest best-selling book: "Missoula: Rape and the Justice System in a College Town." Joel continues to prosecute sex crimes and homicides for the Montana Attorney General.

Class of 1996

Shane Bassett

Shane recently left the Reynolds School District in the Portland, Ore., area and became principal at Gilbert Heights Elementary School in the David Douglas School District, also in Portland. Although his job duties are multifaceted, his main goals are to assist teachers in implementing culturally relevant policies and practices, increase family engagement and refine instructional strategies in order to increase student achievement.

David Velasco

On Nov. 1, David will celebrate his 10th year at Artforum Magazine, where he is editor-in-chief of artforum.com. David is also editing a series of books on dance, which the Museum of Modern Art in New York will publish in the spring of 2016. David is thankful that The Ford Family Foundation helped get him on this track.

Class of 1997

Nathan Bubna

On July 2, Nathan's wife, Brooke, gave birth to their fifth child, Annabelle. She joins siblings Adelle, age 9; Phineas (deceased); Elijah, 5; and Henry Moses, 3.

Class of 1998

Holly (Farring) Scholz

Holly recently moved from Springfield, Ore., to Redmond, Ore., with her husband and two sons in order to be closer to her parents. In September, she started working as a part-time newspaper reporter for the Central Oregonian in Prineville, covering schools, education and community news. Holly is happy to be back in her rural hometown community, working for the same small-town newspaper where her journalism career began in high school. She will continue to edit and produce the Ford Scholar Alumni News.

Amanda (Rogers) Thorpe

Amanda is a partner at Hughes, Rote, Brouhard and Thorpe, LLP in Grants Pass, Ore., and was elected to the Oregon Women Lawyers Board of Directors in May 2015.

Class of 1999

Danielle (Quimby) Currey

Danielle successfully moved her medical practice into her brand-new clinic on June 1, bringing on board another doctor as well as an acupuncturist. She continues to serve low-income families by providing high-quality medical care and education in the greater southeast-Portland area. Additionally, she traveled to San Francisco this year to speak at the National Psoriasis Foundation Research Symposium and National Volunteer Conference on the topics of alternative medicine and the patient experience.

Brian Nebrensky

Brian recently became a grandfather to Raegan Mackenzie Kim.

Seth Ring

One of Seth's films, POWGirls (<https://vimeo.com/134902221>), is in the Portland Film Festival. Description: Over the course of one week, watch a group of girls ages 15-19 realize their power, creativity and voice in media production through a film-making workshop based out of MetroEast Community Media in Gresham, Ore., facilitated by POWFest (Portland Oregon Women's Film Festival). Watch the growth of creative, tech-savvy leaders who will help realize gender equity in media industries. POWGirls is designed to foster the power of women in media.

Class of 2000

Zach Evenson

Zach received a Ph.D. in materials science in 2012. He works as an instrument scientist at the Research Neutron Source Heinz Maier-Leibnitz (FRM II) in Munich, Germany. His research explores the atomic motions in complex liquid metal alloys by using beams of neutrons produced at the FRM II. He aims to better understand the atomic-scale properties of liquid metals and how these influence the formation of advanced structural materials, specifically metallic glasses. Before this position, he spent one and a half years as a postdoctoral research scientist at the German Aerospace Center in Cologne, Germany.

Class of 2001

Todd Gifford

The American Society of Implant and Reconstructive Dentistry (ASIRD) recently selected Todd into membership. Only 15 percent of dentists in the U.S. restore more than five implants a year, and only a select few of these dentists are elected into ASIRD membership, which is by invitation only. Selection is based on specific training requirements and above-average clinical outcomes. He is committed to educating patients about dental implants and the importance of choosing an experienced surgeon and dental team.

Class of 2002

Meghan (Bailey) Golden

Meghan married Kolby Golden in May.

Jennifer (Hurlimann) Gomes

Jennifer's daughter and son are now nearly 4 and 2 years old. She teaches English half-time at Scott Valley Junior High in Fort Jones, Calif., and teaches a remedial English class at College of the Siskiyous. She has started a lifestyle blog, www.adomesticwildflower.com, full of Scholar-approved living ideas.

Class of 2004

Sabrina Abbott

Sabrina and her husband, Alexander Golé, welcomed their first child, Mélanie Marie Golé, on Dec. 5, 2014. In addition to having a child, Sabrina has been busy with her career as a painter, exhibiting artwork in both the United States and Europe.

Norma Kehdi

In August 2015, Norma graduated with a doctorate in clinical psychology. She was offered a postdoctoral fellowship at the University of Southern California, working with Disability Services and Programs as well as the USC Kortschak Center for Learning and Creativity, a program offering a modern approach to supporting student success. In the last year, she has volunteered with Arab youth refugees in Southern California, which is an endeavor she hopes to continue to pursue. She can't speak enough to how The Ford Family Foundation helped begin her journey. Her thanks are endless.

Class of 2005

Violet Read

Violet earned a Master of Social Work in Community Practice from the Diana R. Garland School of Social Work at Baylor University in Waco, Texas, in May 2015.

Class of 2006

Rachael (Bochsler) Hills

Rachael and her husband, Gavin, welcomed their first baby, Jacqueline Hills, in March 2015. Rachael works as a pharmacist at the Silverton Hospital in Silverton, Ore.

Stephen Wilson and Desiree Valenzuela-Wilson

Stephen and Desiree, both Class of 2006 Ford Scholars, were married June 13, 2015, in Mt. Shasta, Calif. Both graduates of Dunsmuir High School, they now live in Oakland, Calif. Desiree works for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society as a senior campaign manager, and Stephen works at Perkiwille as a product manager.

Class of 2007

Karla Rascon-Garcia

After five years of various and extensive volunteer trips overseas, Karla was accepted into graduate school at the University of Arizona this fall and has started her Master's Degree in Development Practice.

Role-Model Alumni Sought for Bruce Award Nominations

Anne Kubisch presents Class of 2001 Ford Scholar Alumna Olesya Salathe with the Gerald E. Bruce Community Service Award on June 20, 2015.

"Being a dentist is not only about doing the perfect cavity preparation, it's not only about making someone smile. It is a platform that enables me to do good for my community and that is what I value the most out of my career and hold closest to my heart," says Dr. Olesya Salathe, the winner of the 2015 Gerald E. Bruce Community Service Award.

The Ford Family Foundation President Anne Kubisch presented Salathe, from the Ford Scholar Class of 2001, with the award at the Ford Scholars Recognition Conference in Eugene on June 20.

Class of 2010

Zander Albertson

This fall, Zander began a two-year environmental studies master's program at Western Washington University, where he also serves as a teaching assistant for the department.

Ashley DeSautel-Barth

Ashley passed the National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX) three weeks after attaining her Bachelor of Science in nursing and became a licensed registered nurse. She was chosen for Salem Hospital's competitive New Grad RN Residency Program and now works as an emergency department registered nurse. She loves every minute of it!

Gerald E. Bruce, the award's name-sake, was a close friend of Mr. Ford and one of The Foundation's founding directors. He envisioned a future where Ford Scholars were not only successful in their careers of choice but also acted as volunteers and civic leaders.

The Foundation is seeking applications and nominations for the annual Gerald E. Bruce Community Service Award for Ford Scholar Alumni who are pillars in their community as entrepreneurs, philanthropists and role models for future generations. Ford Scholars from the Classes of 1994 through 2006 are eligible to be nominated. Nominations may be submitted on behalf of one's self or by a fellow Ford Scholar and are due by Nov. 11, 2015.

The selected recipient will receive a plaque and a $5,000 grant to a non-profit organization of their choice at the Ford Scholars Recognition Conference in Eugene on June 25, 2016.

Nominators and applicants will be entered into a drawing for a $25 Amazon gift card.

Visit the Ford Scholar Alumni Association website for the nomination form, www.FordScholarAlumni.com, under the "Get Involved" tab.
